Toft 'shocked' at lawsuit concerning Fields' mailing

by GLORIA DAVIS

Antioch's Mayor Ray Toft found out he was being sued by Antioch Atty. Robert Long when he talked to Village Clerk Marilyn Sterbenz on the phone on Monday from Florida where he is vacationing.

"He was shocked," said Sterbenz reporting on Toft's reaction to a lawsuit filed on Friday by Long, who is on the Democratic ballot for states attorney.

Long is suing Toft for "using a village mailing permit to mail 6,700 letters endorsing the candidacy of Jim Fields and Fred Popp for Lake County Board.

According to Sterbenz, "the mayor knew absolutely nothing about the village mailing permit being used. In fact his first understanding was that the letter would probably be inserted into Jim Fields' other political mailings," said Sterbenz.

Laurel Dahl, a member of the village's office staff, says that she typed the letter up for Toft and though it was on village time, it "only took a few minutes to do." She added that "the mayor was very specific that the letter was not to be connected in any way with the village. This was a personal thing he was doing himself."

Norman Biller, owner of Biller Press, who does a lot of printing and mailing for both the village and Toft personally and for his race track, said that his office is responsible for "the mistake."

"My office printed the letters and the envelopes and stuffed them and then took them to the post office to be mailed. We paid the mailing costs of approximately .083 cents per letter when we mailed them said Biller.

The mistake occurred, according to Biller, when his office used the mailing permit number used for village mailings instead of getting a new one just for the Toft mailing "as we should have."

A representative of the Antioch Post Office verified that it was Biller's office that mailed the letters and also paid the postage bill.

"That cost will be on Mayor Toft's private account with Biller, the mailing did not cost the village anything, the only thing that was wrong was that the village mailing permit was used," said Sterbenz.

According to Biller the proper procedure "done by everyone who has a mailing over 200 pieces should have been to get another permit costing $50 plus and annual fee of $50, which even when added to the .083 cent per letter mailing cost, would still be cheaper than mailing the letters singly."

Long said that as of press time, he only knew what he had heard second hand from a report on the radio.

Richard Price doing well at Milwaukee rehab center

Reports are that Richard Price, 18, senior at Antioch High School, who was injured when the truck he was driving was hit by a Lake County snowplow at the intersection of Deep Lake Rd. and Rte. 173 in February, is "doing well at a rehabilitation center, Sacred Heart Therapy Hospital, Milwaukee."

Price suffered critical injuries because of the crash and the Antioch Rescue Squad was on the scene administering advanced life support until the Flight For Life helicopter from the Northern Ill. Medical Center arrived and took him to Milwaukee County General Hospital. He was immediately transferred to Froedtert Memorial Hospital.

Executive 'no'...Water 'yes'

See lop-sided defeat as 'Neal' referendum

by BILL SCHROEDER

Lake County voters like their present form of government—wrangling over the County Board chairmanship and all.

They said so in ringing numbers on a referendum question in the primary election, defeating adoption of the county executive system 47,952 to 22,949.

With one notable exception—Dist. 3 Rep. Robert "Bob" Neal of Wadsworth—County Board members were jubilant. A majority of the 23 members of the deliberative body governing the county was against the plan to consolidate leadership in an at-large elected county executive.

Some board members, though, kept a low profile due to fear of reprisal from Neal in his position as Lake County Republican chairman. It was Neal who spearheaded a petitioning drive to get the proposition on the ballot.

Dist. 5 Rep. James Dolan of Libertyville was pleased at the outcome. He had considered forming an organization to oppose Neal and the Republican Central Committee, but decided against it due to lack of time.

Dist. 6 Rep. Bruce Hansen of Lake Zurich gleefully watched votes pile up against the executive plan. "They outspent us 30 to one and still lost," he declared.

The spending was in the form of Citizens for Lake County put together by Neal and GOP insiders and a series of expensive mailings to voters. The pro-executive group raised most of its funds through contributions from land developers, real estate brokers and business persons doing business with the county.

Pro-executive spending reliably was pegged at $30,000.

Both winning and losing candidates for Republican nominations for County Board spoke out against executive form.

Two winners, C. Richard Anderson and Roberta "Bobbie" O'Reilly, in Dist. 6 of southwest Lake County successfully tied in their opponents with softness on open space questions which turned out to be a "quiet" issue in the executive proposition.

Only county officer to speak out against executive was County Clerk Linda Hess, a Democrat.

Neal put pressure on Republican officials who either openly supported county executive or laid low.

George, Bell, Fremont Twp. GOP chairman and a former County Board leader, worked hard against the executive plan.

Bell did not disguise his opposition to Neal in assessing the lop-sided vote. "I'll do everything to get rid of Neal," declared Bell, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate to oppose Neal for the party's leadership.

Bell was among GOP leaders who interpreted the executive question defeat as a referendum on Neal.

Voters decisively split water financing costs

Residents encompassed by the member communities of the Lake County Joint Action Water Agency have decisively voted to make owners of large undeveloped parcels of land pay a portion of the the $70 million bill for the design and construction of the water intake, water purification plant, transmission lines and pumping stations needed for the acquisition of Lake Michigan water.

Residents in the communities of Gurnee, Grayslake, Lake Bluff, Libertyville, Round Lake, Round Lake Beach, Round Lake Park, Round Lake Heights, and Lake County which serves the Village of Vernon Hills, Knollwood, Roundout, and Wildwood voted more than two to one in favor of splitting the financing between general obligation bonds and water revenue bonds.

In the unofficial tally, 9,323 residents voted in favor of splitting the bill and 4,282 against it.

The 50/50 mixture of general obligation bonds and water revenue bonds will set an estimated uniform tax rate of 36 cents per $100 assessed valuation, which would be levied in 1989 and collected in 1990. This is in addition to the rates already paid by residents.

The water project contemplated by the Central Lake County Joint Action Water Agency includes a 26 million-gallon-per day intake and treatment facility, and over 20 miles of water transmission lines to convey treated Lake Michigan water to member communities. Water from Lake Michigan is expected to start flowing by 1991.

With the favorable approval of the referendum, the wholesale water rate is forecasted to be approximately $1.52 per 1,000 gallons in 1991, $1.27 per 1,000 gallons in the year 2000, and $1.21 per 1,000 gallons by the year 2010. After the $70 million debt is retired, the agency's wholesale water rate is estimated to be about 50 cents per 1,000 gallons.

Lubkeman, Bravura get awards from 2 states

End of the year high point awards were awarded to Annette Lubkeman of Antioch and her horse, Bravura, by the Illinois Saddlebred Pleasure Horse Assn. for equitation, country pleasure, and country pleasure model.

Lubkeman and Bravura also were named the year-end English country pleasure 18 and over champion by the American Saddlebred Assn. of Wisconsin.

The Mid America Horse Assn. gave Bravura the Reserve Country Pleasure

Championship "B" high point award.

Points for these awards were won in horse show competition throughout Illinois and Wisconsin.

Bravura is an eight-year-old chestnut American Saddlebred gelding. A true American breed developed mainly for riding, the Saddlebred is known for his ability to furnish an easy, comfortable ride. Saddlebreds also compete in driving, dressage, hunting, jumping, stock horse, and parade events.

Lubkeman and Bravura are part of the exploding horse and horseman population of Lake County. It has been estimated that there are over 13,000 horses in Lake County with 66 boarding, lesson or breeding stables. They are trained at Northwind Stable, Gurnee, by Nealia Molback.

Kempf loses race, Neal tie may be reason for loss

by GLORIA DAVIS

Not only did the Robert Neal Republican county power pack suffer when the county exec referendum went down to a resounding defeat in Tuesday's primary election, but a close cohort of Neal's in Antioch Twp. also went down for the count.

Charles Kempf, Antioch Twp. Republican chairman, was beaten by challenger Joanne Osmond, 125-86, for committeeman of Precinct 9.

Before the primary, both Kempf and Osmond denied reports that there was a cism in the Antioch Twp. Republican Party brought on by Neal's county exec proposal.

Osmond, who was a committeeman in another precinct before she moved to Kempf's precinct, said that she was running because she didn't feel that Kempf was giving her new precinct proper representation, accusing him of not attending meetings.

Kempf said that Osmond got angry at him in the last election when she was just a candidate and he refused to give her the sample ballots to walk the precinct with.

"My job as chairman is to give those ballots to the incumbent committeeman only," said Kempf.

Bowlers at state

The Antioch Community High School girls bowling team had a disappointing end to a very successful season by being eliminated in the first round of the state finals tournament in Peoria. The team had hoped to better last year's 16th place finish but had to settle for 19th.

The season was filled with many enjoyable moments as the team coasted to a school record 12-1 dual meet record, with finishes of fifth and seventh in the prestigious Palatine and Round Lake Invitational Tournaments.

The squad lost an extremely close and hard-fought match against Fenton in the conference tournament and was able to place the medalists for All-Conference honors: fifth, Michelle Zinkowich; sixth, Denise Souder; and seventh, Deanna Hallwas.

The squad lost an extremely close match in defending the sectional championship at Bertrand's Lanes in Waukegan, where it became the 1988 Sectional Champions which earned their fourth trip downstate in the last five years. Sectional place winners were: first place, Kim Vanderheiden; second place, Deanna Hallwas.

The team will return four varsity starters to next year's line-up when it again plans to represent the Antioch Community High School with the finest bowlers in the area.

He is a 1982 graduate of Antioch High School.

Vandals trash home of Antioch High teacher

by GLORIA DAVIS

Although they have moved back into their house on Grand Ave. in Lake Villa Twp., a 35-year-old Antioch High School teacher and his family are still undertaking the repair of the serious damage done to their home by vandals last week.

The teachers at the high school have pitched in and posted a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the perpetrators.

According to the Lake County Sheriff's Dept., which is still following up leads on the case, the damage was done just after midnight while the family was away visiting friends.

The home was actually uninhabitable right after the damage was discovered and a professional cleaning service and contractor had to be brought in to repair structural damage and holes in the walls.

The carpeting was ruined when milk, beer (which it is assumed the vandals were drinking during the spree) catsup, garbage and broken glass were ground into it.

Appliances, including a microwave, blender, stereo, television were smashed. Police think that heavy instruments such as hammers and baseball bats were used in the destruction.

The teacher has taught and been a coach at the high school for 12 years.

Can't ignore transit needs

The long-standing idea of commuter service on the Soo Line, now correctly known as the Wisconsin Central Line following an ownership change, is nearing a watershed. A meeting March 23 at Buffalo Grove bringing together public transit agencies, village officials and the railroad is expected to see the plan go forward or get mothballed.

For the good of all, we hope the plan is kept alive so that the mushrooming south end of Lake County will have an alternative to automobile travel to Chicago. From the viewpoint of public policy, we think it makes sense to promote mass transit rather than building new highways.

It was disappointing that a Metra study ruled out service to Grayslake, Lake Villa and Antioch, but there isn't sufficient ridership, at least in this century, to warrant this link. Running south from Mundelein, though, is another story and this is the area including Vernon Hills and Buffalo Grove that will be stressed.

One of the keys to keeping the Mundelein link alive is involvement of local officials. This may be more difficult than working out financial details what with the pressing issues of water, solid waste disposal and growth at hand. Right now public transit might not loom large in the minds of many village officials. But it can't be ignored and transit needs won't be solved by wishing.

Spending surpassing

For educators in public higher education and elected officials, both hard pressed to cope with college and university budget needs, a decade ahead of declining enrollment will be just what the doctor ordered.

The Illinois Board of Higher Education has predicted that college and university enrollment should decline at least through the year 2000. The anticipated decline is attributed to a decrease in population in the 18 to 24 age group. The prediction comes after an experience in state universities of slightly higher enrollments during the past decade.

Will the lessening of enrollment pressures reflect itself in diminishing monetary needs? Not exactly. With teacher salary demands what they are, the enrollment drop may not result in diminished spending. But it can't hurt.

Higher education spending in fiscal 1987 was $1,722 billion, nearly double the $891 million spent in fiscal '78.

Average tuition and fees at state universities were $1,710 in fiscal '87, more than double the $728 average in fiscal 1978. For the same period, community college tuition and fees almost doubled from $412 to $719. Clearly, higher education is getting more expensive all the time. There doesn't appear to be any correlation with enrollment like there should be.

Total spending among the four public university systems from appropriated funds in fiscal 1987 was $1.214 billion, up $559 million (83 percent) from the $655 million spent in fiscal 1978. The University of Illinois was the beneficiary of 48.9 percent of fiscal 1987 spending while the other three university systems divided the remainder of the appropriated funds in nearly equal proportions. Southern Illinois University received 17.9 percent, the Board of Regents accounted for 17.1 percent and the Board of Governors received 16.1 percent.

Big business from tourism

Lake County should reap big benefits from the all-out push in Illinois for tourism. Illinois is spending more to attract visitors and the results seem to be speaking for themselves.

Illinois $15.5 million tourism budget for fiscal 1987 was tops in the nation. Travelers to Illinois spent an estimated $8.6 billion in 1985, the latest figure available, making Illinois the seventh most popular state to visit. Ranking ahead were California, Florida, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Much of the tourism dollars spent in Illinois were concentrated in Chicago, where 690 conventions attracted some 495,000 persons. Additionally, 1.5 million persons attended 154 trade shows and 26,500 corporate meetings attracted 870,000 visitors. Income from visits to Chicago totalled $1.422 billion in 1986, according to the Chicago Convention and Visitors Bureau.

While Illinois ranks first in money spent to attract tourists, travel-related jobs accounted for just 3.2 percent of employment in the state in 1985. By comparison, 31.8 percent of Nevada jobs were tourism-related, 14.1 percent in Vermont and 13.6 percent in Hawaii.

Letters To The Editor

Bending the taxpayer

The U.S. Coast Guard is evaluating CDG-87-083 non-emergency towing policy. Basically, this policy states that the Coast Guard and or its auxiliary volunteer group cannot assist a stranded boater unless it is an emergency. They must "stand-off and call a commercial tower to assist the distressed vessel." The cost of the commercial tower, which is not regulated, must be absorbed by the boat owner.

We as boaters, pay for Coast Guard assistance through our taxes.

Auxiliary volunteers who pride themselves as "the boaters friend" are not going to be able to help us. Assisting the boating public is the motivation of these volunteers. Why tie their hands and discourage and embarrass them.

Rather than pay, we will be forced to help each other and not very many of us are qualified to do this and not create safety and property damage problems.

If we do not have the Coast Guard "out there," who will be calling the commercial tower?

It appears to me that, once again, the taxpayer is being required to bend to satisfy the demands of private business.

The Coast Guard encourages comments from us. I for one have let them know how I feel. Other concerned boaters should write to: Coast Guard and Navigation Sub-Committee, U.S. House of Representatives, H2-547 House Office Bldg., Annex 11, Washington, D.C. 20515. Attn: Rep. Earl Hutto, Chairman. Regarding: CGD-87-083.

Helping curb crime

Operation "Snowball" was a very successful drug investigation conducted by the Lake County Sheriff's Police, Round Lake Beach Police and Antioch Police Dept. Crime Stoppers assisted in setting the wheels in motion through an anonymous tip. As this investigation clearly illustrates, the cooperative efforts of the citizens in our community, law enforcement, and the media have a tremendous impact on crime.

Marine unit nearing 50th anniversary

by BILL SCHROEDER

Some grizzled local Leathernecks already are looking forward to the 50th reunion of one of the most unusual military units ever recruited in Lake County history.

They are members of the Jack Benny Platoon, 62 U.S. Marines recruited from all corners of the county to fight in World War II. It's not too early to start planning to honor this special group of men. What a celebration it would be!

Organizing a unit named for Waukegan's favorite son was the brainchild of the late George Crawford, editor of the Waukegan News-Sun. Crawford was partial to Marines and thought it would be a colorful patriotic event in the wake of Pearl Harbor to muster a unit from the county that would be enlisted enmasse. Crawford's stirring editorials caught the fancy of the county. The Jack Benny Platoon took the oath July 30, 1942, in a public enlistment ceremony at Weiss Field. Ironically, Crawford's son, George Jr., became a career Army officer some years later.

For a brief period, the Lake County Marines were national celebrities. Ray Zukley, who now operates a jewelry store in Zion, gained honor man status in boot training. Jack Benny Platoon members were separated after boot and assigned to various units of the 3rd Marine Division because of the "Sullivan Rule" prohibiting members of the same family or buddies serving together. They fought bravely in the South Pacific beginning with the Battle of Bougainville. Eddie Nolan, a Lake Forest plumber, was the most decorated countian.

About a dozen members didn't return from the South Pacific. Approximately an equal number have passed on since. Eddie O'Grady of Fox Lake, who lived in Waukegan when he joined the Jack Benny Platoon, believes that there are about 40 members who could get together at a golden anniversary of their enlistment.

Where are the other members of the Jack Benny Platoon? We'd like to hear from you. Start getting ready for the 50th.

FIRST BOOK—Bonnie Stone, former women's editor of Lakeland Newspapers, is enjoying the adulation of publishing her first book, "Aloha Cowboy," a unique history of horto release announcements of successful investigations involving Crime Stoppers tips. This policy has a dual effect. First, police agencies receive the well deserved credit and recognition for efficient performance. In addition, another important message is conveyed, namely, Crime Stoppers works—the results are visible. As a consequence of this message, more citizens are encouraged to call Crime Stoppers, (312)662-2222. This leads to additional crime tips, and hence, more serious crimes will be solved. The support given Crime Stoppers by our law enforcement community is clearly a pivotal step toward solving and controlling crime.

For the benefit of crime victims, Crime Stoppers will seize every opportunity to reinforce the message: Crime Stoppers works. On occasion, major case breakthroughs have gone unannounced.

Crime Stoppers Board of Directors wishes to express appreciation for the responsive and effective criminal investigation conducted by the police semanship in the island state from the time horses were introduced to the Hawaiian Islands in 1803 to the present. Bonnie had a first-hand opportunity to research her colorful topic during more than a decade of residence in Hawaii while her husband, Leighton, a former Round Lake Park resident, was in the Navy.

Stone already has an encore planned, signing a contract for a book to be entitled, "When Husbands Come Out of the Closet." After her Lake County newspapering stint, Bonnie kept active in writing with articles for women's magazines and other periodicals. Leighton spent most of his Navy career in the submarine service. The Stones are now residents of California.

COMMITTED—Talk to Grant Farrell a few minutes and you know that you're meeting a man with a mission. Farrell's ambition is to getting elected a state representative.

Farrell, 36, is running unopposed for the Democratic nomination from the 62nd Dist. of the northern tier of townships of Lake County. The Republican incumbent, Robert Churchill, also is running unopposed, so the stage is set for a Churchill-Farrell clash in November.

About that mission: Farrell, graying hair and engaging, left a job last fall as a plumbing company executive to campaign. "I decided to take a year off to do something I've wanted to do since seven years old. I have no intention of losing. I'm working my tail off to win," the Antioch resident exclaims without drawing a breath.

Is Farrell on a wild goose chase in Republican-dominated Lake County? Not exactly. Insiders point to pockets of democratic strength in Zion, Waukegan, Round Lake and Lindenhurst that are part of the district. Asked about this, Farrell grins and replies, "As I was saying, I don't plan on losing." And as if to project an image of determination rather than cockiness, the native of Waukegan adds: "And if I do, I can always go back to the trade. I know how it is to work with my hands."

The aspiring politician has the full backing of his wife, who is employed at Baxter's Deerfield headquarters, and his three children. "She's supporting the family, and we're watching our pennies," he declared.

Rumblings not enough to oust Chairman Neal

THERE ARE RUMBLINGS in Republican circles around the county that it is time to replace party chairman Bob Neal. But rumblings do not a groundswell make. Some Republicans, mostly County Board members, are furious with Neal for his role in initiating the referendum on creating a county executive.

As this column is written, the primary election has not yet been held. But whether the county executive has passed or failed, it will make little difference in Neal's tenure as Republican Party Chairman.

If it were County Board members who selected the party chairman, Neal would be out. But it is 396 precinct committeemen who will make the choice—and most of them do not view the county executive referendum as a personal affront, regardless of whether they supported or opposed it.

A big factor in Neal's favor is that there is no single candidate his opponents can unite behind. Lake County Sheriff Robert "Mickey" Babcox tried a few years ago to oust Neal but decided that discretion was the better part of valor when it became clear that there was no candidate who could defeat him. If the politically skilled Babcox could not unseat Neal with a coalition candidate, I doubt the lesser lights in the party are going to be able to pull it off.

Another factor that will weigh heavily in Neal's favor is his vigor in supporting all Republican candidates when the general election rolls around. While Neal can be very abrasive and divisive during primary campaigns, he never carries a grudge into a general election. He supports the Republican ticket 100 percent, working just as tirelessly for those candidates he tried to defeat in the primary as for those he supported.

Now that the primary is over, and in the absence of a clear alternative,

Republican candidates who know they can count on Neal's help if the going gets tough in the general election are unlikely to turn to someone else.

SCHOOL FUNDING WILL loom large in the debate in the Illinois Legislature this year—and the issue is sure to spill into the campaign.

The failure of the legislature to increase taxes last session has set the stage for the biggest round of school funding cuts in memory. Illinois currently ranks 41st among the states in the amount of state support it provides for its public schools. It will soon rank lower.

School administrators and school boards across the state are grappling now with where to make the drastic cuts that will be necessary. Parents should prepare now to hear their schools announce that there will be fewer programs and higher property taxes to make up the shortfall.

When the magnitude of the crisis hits home to parents, school officials will lay the blame squarely where it belongs—at the feet of the state legislature. Watch for this to become one of the hottest issues of the summer and fall.

similarities between President Ronald Reagan and Dukakis that are important.

The general electorate did not vote for an idealogue in 1980 so much as they did a man who was consistent in his beliefs and who had been a pragmatic, effective governor of the nation's most populous state, California. It was precisely because of Reagan's pragmatism as California governor that warnings by Democrats that he would be a dangerous idealogue did not ring true.

Dukakis has been a pragmatic, effective governor of Massachusetts. His economic policies in that state have worked particularly well. At heart, he is a manager—not a linker. Republican efforts to paint him as a one-dimensional give the store away liberal will not ring true.

Can Bush win? Certainly, but not if he succumbs to the blind euphoria which is now sweeping some Republican circles. Dukakis is not a man to underestimate.

Look for political action—that's where you'll find controversial Lake County Republican Chairman Robert "Bob" Neal, right front. ## Players explained in Soo Line drama Confusing, even to transportation experts, are the names and relationships of the various public and private organizations which will play a part in the possible use of the presently all-freight Soo Line for commuter rail service. Here is a brief run-down which may clarify the situation.

North Suburban Mass Transit District

The initial studies and much of the current evaluation is being done by the District, a governmental agency formed in 1972 and composed of 24 north and north suburban communities. The District retains a strong interest in the Soo Line project because much of the line runs through its communities.

Regional Transportation Authority (RTA)

This was the overall agency created in 1975 to provide for and to fund both rail and bus service (including the NORTAN bus service operated by the North Suburban Mass Transit District) for the six counties which make up the Chicago metro area.

Metra board

In 1983 new legislation created Metra as the rail board of the RTA, charged exclusively with commuter rail planning and operation, though funding still comes from the RTA. It is Metra which has commissioned the latest and most extensive Soo Line feasibility study. It is that study which will be reviewed at the March 23 meeting in Buffalo Grove which has been set up jointly by Metra and the North Suburban Mass Transit District.

The Soo Line

The Soo Line is now owned by Wisconsin Central Ltd., a private company which would have to enter into an agreement with Metra to operate or to permit Metra to operate trains over its tracks.

PADS now open for shelter and food 7 nights a week

Shelter, food and hospitality are now available every night of the week to those in need in Lake County.

Wildwood Presbyterian Church, Wildwood, closed the last gap in the weekly schedule, hard on the heels of Ivanhoe Congregational Church, Mundelein. Both churches will open as shelter sites the week of March 14. They follow the opening of North Shore Unitarian Church, Deerfield, as a shelter on March 6.

Other churches participating in the PADS program are St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Waukegan; Wesley Free Methodist Church, Waukegan; Memorial United Methodist Church, Zion; and Wauconda Federated Church,

Wauconda. Wesley Church has been opening its doors on both Tuesday and Thursday evenings until sites could be found for all days of the week.

The following weekly schedule will remain the same until the end of the program season April 30. Sunday: North Shore Unitarian Church, 2100 Half Day (Rt. 22),

Deerfield. Monday: St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Yorkhouse and Delaney Rds., Waukegan. Tuesday: Wildwood

Presbyterian Church, 32438 Sears Blvd., Wildwood. Wednesday: Ivanhoe Congregational Church, 21078 W. Hwy. 176, Mundelein.

Families may host sailors

This year, for the first time ever, families in the Milwaukee-Chicago area can invite sailors from the Great Lakes Naval Training Center to spend Easter Sunday with them.

For many years, area families have hosted naval personnel at Thanksgiving and Christmas. This year, in response to a number of requests from area families and churches, the program is being expanded to include Easter Sunday, April 3.

The Easter Sunday program will be very similar to the other holiday programs. Last year, more than 1,000 sailors spent the holidays as guests of area families and church organizations.

Families or other groups who would like to open their homes to naval personnel on Easter may make arrangements by contacting the Training Center Public Affairs office, (312)688-2201/2430, between 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays.

Participating families will be asked to pick up their guest sailors at the Recruit Training Command on Buckley Rd. between 8 and 10 a.m. Easter morning. The sailors must be returned to the base prior to 8 p.m.

Interested families may register for the program until 4 p.m. Thursday, March 31.

Supercollider, landfills dominate board session

Issues of development and health dominated the County Board's regular monthly session as members wrestled with whether or not to issue a resolution supporting location of the supercollider in Illinois.

"This board has no business supporting something 75 miles away in Kane County," said Mike Graham (R-Libertyville). Harking to his favorite subject, Graham said location of the supercollider near here would add to the burden on the schools and roads while taking the land off the tax rolls and destroying over 13,000 acres of good farmland.

Eleanor Rostron (R-Waukegan) retorted that the supercollider would be built underground and the land above it would remain vacant. "Open space advocates should support this project because it will help support their goals," she said.

Bruce Hansen (R-Lake Zurich) moved to defer the resolution because board members were uncertain whether Kane County, which would be home to the supercollider, had adopted a similar resolution of support.

"I don't think we would appreciate it if Kane County voted to support putting a nuclear dump in our county without checking to see how we felt about it," Hansen remarked.

"The supercollider is not a nuclear dump," Jim LaBelle (R-Zion) shot back, "and Kane County does support it."

Asked if Kane County had formally adopted a resolution of support, LaBelle was unsure, but he maintained that the Kane County Board is enthusiastic in its support of the project.

Graham said LaBelle sounded as if he were "talking for (Gov.) Jim Thompson," a reference to LaBelle's full-time job as a liaison for the governor.

The motion to defer lost on a close 9-11 vote and the resolution was passed 15-6.

A resolution urging stronger enforcement and inspection of landfills and local landfill sites apparently puzzled Sam Payne (D-Zion).

"I don't understand why we need this resolution. Have we been getting lax lately," Payne asked.

Helen Belmont Amendola (R-Highland Park), chairman of the building and health committee, which submitted the resolution, reminded Payne that the board had considered a similar resolution last month but sent it back to committee to make it stronger.

Hansen, who had objected to the resolution submitted at last month's meeting because it was too weak, was very pleased with the new resolution.

"The important thing is to keep the Wauconda Sand and Gravel Pit on the EPA Superfund list," he said.

"Otherwise, the taxpayers of this county will have to pay for the eventual clean-up."

Deloris Axelrod (R-Highland Park) reminded board members that the Superfund is operated as a revolving loan fund and is not a giveaway program.

"But we have the people who did the dumping," Hansen said. "They will have to pay for the clean-up. I would hate to see the dump get a temporary clean bill of health and then have Lake County get stuck with the bill."

The board voted unanimously to adopt the resolution.

Honor 100th anniversary of dream

Editor's note: This is the second in a series of articles saluting Abbott Laboratories Inc. on its 100th anniversary.

In 1926, Abbott Laboratories turned down an otherwise attractive merger because then-president Dr. Alfred Burdick couldn't bear to change the company's name. "I hope we will be known as Abbott Laboratories long after we're gone," he explained.

Economics aside, Burdick's decision is perfectly understandable. Dr. Wallace C. Abbott, who founded the company, was an innovator in the world of pharmaceuticals; any company president would hesitate to give up the name of such a man.

Born in 1857 to Luther and Wealtha Abbott, Wallace spent his childhood working on the family farm in Vermont. Because his father considered grammar school education sufficient, Abbott was 19 years old before he went to the State Normal School. He then attended St. Johnsburg Academy in Vermont. There he demonstrated mental abilities that matched his physical endurance, completing four years worth of college prep work in half that time. One impressed professor from the University of Michigan Medical School told him, "Go anywhere, Abbott. You will succeed wherever you go."

By age 30, Abbott had a doctor's diploma, a new bride and a new medical practice in what is now the Ravenswood section of Chicago. He quickly proved himself to be a physician of uncommon energy and curiosity. Between peddling his bicycle to house calls and building trade at his "People's Drug Store", Abbott studied medication, always looking for better treatments.

He grew dissatisfied with the side effects of medicinal fluids derived from plants and switched to "alkaloids", or granules containing only the active ingredients from plants. Abbott educated himself on dosimetry, the science of giving small frequent doses of a medication until a desired effect is realized. When the available alkaloids weren't soluble enough to please him, he began to manufacture his own granules in his kitchen.

That endeavor sparked a new business, the Abbott Alkaloidal Co., which was fueled by the young doctor's penchant for productivity and quality. His first method of increasing productivity was to hire his parents and his sister, buy them a house two blocks from his own, and use their kitchen for an extra laboratory. To maintain quality, he constantly experimented with granule-making methods and improved upon them. Three years into his new venture, with sales already approaching $8,000, Abbott announced, "I now have granules which are accurate...the solubility (is) rapid and perfect...and the keeping quality assured without gum or any other material that will harden with age and render the granule worthless."

In 1891, the doctor added writing to his pursuits, offering readers of the professional journal "Medical World", his insights on dosimetry and alkaloids. Relentlessly optimistic, Abbott told readers of one issue how he treated several hundred victims of the influenza epidemic and "lost only one, and that a plethoric, rheumatic woman at the climacteric period with cerebritis."

Does gender of boss make a difference?

Does the gender of a boss make a difference?

Adia Personnel Services surveyed 1,100 personnel decision makers to determine whether most people prefer to work for a man or a woman. The majority, 71 percent, said gender "doesn't matter."

Of those who expressed a preference, 25 percent opted for a male supervisor. Only four percent said they'd rather work for a female manager.

When asked what qualities influenced their choice, 60 percent of those who preferred a male boss responded that males "have more authority in the workplace." This was followed by "are better able to grasp the big picture" (36 percent) and "are more understanding bosses" (35 percent).

Of the far smaller group who chose a female supervisor, 71 percent felt that females "are more understanding bosses," followed by "provide more recognition and praise" (59 percent) and "are more willing to train subordinates for advancement" (54 percent).

Perhaps the most revealing commentary comes from respondents' unsolicited feedback:

--"I have had a few bad experiences with female bosses, probably because of their insecurities (i.e., being a female in a management position)."

--"males allow secretaries to work without constant supervision."

--"males are easy going, don't panic in heavy situations."

--"I'd rather just work for a man than for a woman (jealousy)."

These comments suggest that despite the strides of women in the work force, sex role stereotyping is still alive in today's office.

Adia is one of the largest temporary and permanent personnel placement in the state, with three in Lake County—Wauconda, Libertyville and Deerfield. Headquarters is in Menlo Park, Calif.

CLC to retain Navy contract

College of Lake County President Daniel LaVista announced that the college was awarded an 18-month, $15.34 million U.S. Navy contract to continue providing instruction at the Great Lakes Naval Training School.

CLC has provided vocational and remedial training to seamen at Great Lakes after boot camp for eight years. Since then, CLC has trained about 216,000 students at the school with $110 million in contract awards.

The new contract will run through Sept. 30, 1989, and calls for CLC instructors at Great Lakes to teach 36 courses over that period. Schools of instruction include electronics, fire control, diesel mechanics and academic remedial training. The program will be staffed with approximately 400 employees.

The college's proposal, which involved two years of research and preparation, was chosen over bids from education providers across the country in an open bidding process. The college had previously worked with the Navy on a sole source bidding basis.

Homes target young

Abbott

In 1894, Abbott acquired a failing medical journal, "The Alkaloidal Clinic." Infused with his energy and wit, the journal grew from 12 to 36 pages and prospered. With characteristic vision, Abbott crusaded against alcohol and cigarettes in the journal's pages, and also praised the virtues of his alkaloids.

Abbott preached healthy habits to his growing workforce. He encouraged employees to bicycle to work, as he did. He even arranged discount purchases and payroll-deduction payments for employees who wanted bicycles.

In 1896, the doctor found another outlet for his energies and established the Alkaloidal Clinic Publishing Company, complete with presses, bindery, composing room, editorial offices and library. In addition to taking on orders from local companies, the doctor printed his own magazines, pamphlets, order sheets and prescription pads.

The dawn of the 20th-century found Abbott with a newly-incorporated business, a journal with 20,000 plus subscribers, and a demanding schedule. At his desk by seven every morning, the doctor spent his days writing, reviewing and editing articles for the Alkaloidal Clinic and corresponding with other physicians.

Over the next several years, Abbott continued to join forces with other physicians, build bigger facilities, and watch sales climb. Burdick, an employee at the time, convinced Abbott the future lay in synthetic medicinals, not alkaloids. With Abbott's blessing, the company changed its product line and its name to Abbott Laboratories.

When World War I broke out, Abbott Laboratories began to produce Chlorazene, an antiseptic developed by a British physician. It saved the lives of countless men wounded in battle. By the end of the war, Abbott had seen his company again grow in size and influence.

The growth of the synthetics business did create some problems, however. Neighbors became concerned about the objectionable chemical fumes that resulted from the manufacture of synthetic drugs. The search began for a location in a less populous area for future expansion. A 26-acre plot of land in North Chicago was selected. By 1925, all facilities had been moved there.

By 1921, the long hours and heavy workload the doctor required of himself took their toll. Rheumatism and kidney disease began to slow him down. In the summer, Abbott walked home from his office for the last time and took to bed. Three days later, he died.

New equipment, area code highlight Bell's growth

Growth and preparation for future growth marked 1987 for Illinois Bell as the company installed two new digital switching computers in Lake County and announced plans to add a new area code.

During 1987, Illinois Bell spent $298 million on digital switching equipment and transmission facilities, two technologies important for fast and reliable transport of data and video. Bell put into service 24 digital switching machines and 21 remote switching units, including new equipment installed at Libertyville and Antioch.

Last year also saw the amount of fiber optic cable in the Bell network grow to 32,700 fiber miles, with 80 percent of the switching centers in northeastern Illinois interconnected with fiber cable.

Fiber optic cable carries a greater volume of information than copper cable, providing increased reliability and improved transmission quality.

A different area code for Lake County was announced in 1987, to accommodate a growing demand for telephone numbers. The new 708 area code won't go into effect until Nov. 11, 1989.

Prudent mail-order buying shows profitable results

Today's mail-order catalogs are stocked with first-class offerings. Books and boats, cameras and computers, software and cookware are all no more than a phone call away. But before you pick up the phone, the Illinois CPA Society recommends you follow a few simple steps to avoid the most common pitfalls of mail-order shopping.

According to the society, if it looks too good to be true, it probably is. Be suspicious of mail-order advertisements or catalogs that offer name brand merchandise at remarkably low prices. Quality merchandise is often available at discounted prices, but the manufacturer and distributor are in business to make a profit. Be wary of ads that tout designer fashions at 70 percent off or cameras at a fraction of the cost offered by a local store.

Contact your local Better Business Bureau before ordering from a mail-order house for the first time. They determine whether any complaints have been received about the company. Also, read the ad or catalog closely for disclaimers indicating all sales are final. If no warranty is expressed or implied, you should be suspicious of the product's quality. Look for fine print concerning product size and description.

When you call, ask questions about the product. If the clerk cannot answer the questions, you may want to look elsewhere. Reputable companies will spend the money to train their employees, both on products and customer relations.

If everything checks out and you decide to place an order, do not send cash. With a check or credit card, you may still be able to stop payment if your merchandise is faulty or is not delivered; and both give you a tangible receipt.

If you do not receive your merchandise or you have another problem with the company and your complaints go unanswered, contact the Postal Inspectors' Office at your local post office and the Better Business Bureau. The Postal Inspectors will investigate mail fraud, and the Better Business Bureau will record the complaint for use in future consumer inquiries. Neither step, however, will get your money back immediately.

CLC plans satellite conference

State garnishes $2 million from delinquent taxpayers

An enforcement tool used by the Illinois Dept. of Revenue to collect

TV buys may not be best

Shopping at home either by mail or cable television is strictly an individual decision, according to Illinois Attorney General Neil Hartigan.

Cable television shopping, however is a relatively recent concept in consumer buying.

The consumer should always be cautious. One reason is that the quoted list price might not give the full picture. For example, there have been instances where a product is readily available at the local retail outlet for less than the tv discount price. This is particularly true if the product has been discontinued.

delinquent taxes is generating more money for the state without adding manpower.

Garnishment of employee wages and seizures of bank accounts have netted almost $2 million in delinquent taxes during the first seven months of the state's fiscal year.

"Levies against wages and bank accounts are two of our more effective programs to collect delinquent taxes," said Revenue Director Roger Sweet. "A levy is one of our quickest and easiest enforcement tools against taxpayers who refuse to pay their bills." Before the enforcement action can happen, the delinquent taxpayers are notified 10 days in advance that if they don't pay immediately, they will be subject to wage or bank levies. When a delinquent taxpayer will not pay his taxes and is employed, a notice is sent to the employer to deduct up to 15 percent of the taxpayer's weekly gross pay.

Choose financial planners wisely

There is no doubt about it, every person should have a personal or family financial plan.

This plan should document how much a family or an individual earns, what and how the income is spent, and how it saves or invests for the future.

While there are many legitimate financial planners or investment advisors, there are also many unscrupulous ones who will swindle millions of dollars from consumers every year. These proclaimed financial planners have only one interest—to put your money in their pockets.

Therefore, it is extremely important to scrutinize a planner's background, credentials, business reputation, and track record with previous clients before considering using them. Most financial planners or investment advisors are registered with the Secretary of State, Securities Dept., or if they also sell insurance, they're registered with the Dept. of Insurance.

Either way, it is always advisable to check with either agency before you consider placing an investment with anyone.

Plan For Your Future

Credit agencies wage battles

by GARY S. MEYERS

Credit reporting agencies and credit restoration companies are waging a fierce battle with one another, leaving many consumers with credit problems confused and unsure of who to trust.

Since the early 1980's, credit repair clinics have become popular alternatives for consumers who have credit problems but little time or skills to resolve them.

Credit repair clinics help remove erroneous, outdated or incomplete information from a consumer's file at the credit bureau or at the creditor's office. Some companies also help consumers gain credit if they have had no previous credit or a bad credit history.

In the last few years, more than 1,000 credit repair clinics have sprung up across the country. They charge anywhere from $75 an hour to $2,000 per case.

Credit bureaus claim that credit repair agencies mislead distraught consumers by making false promises and charging exorbitant fees.

"Credit repair companies do nothing for the consumer that they can't do themselves," said Marvin Kaplan, spokesman for Assn. of Credit Bureaus, a trade organization in Houston.

Credit repair agencies respond to criticism claiming that they are providing a legitimate service.

"Contrary to what they say, credit (reporting) bureaus are not very consumer-oriented. You cannot get through on the telephone, because they have one or two telephone lines that are constantly busy. And if you do get through, you can't get a last name of anyone," said Jim Bandy, president of American Consumer Credit in San Diego, Calif., a credit restoration company.

"By not helping the consumers, the credit bureaus are actually creating a bigger demand for credit repair companies," said Bandy.

Although requesting a copy of your credit report is fairly easy, getting inaccurate or negative information investigated or erased from a credit report is often difficult, frustrating, and takes a certain knowledge of how credit bureaus operate, say many credit restoration companies.

But in an effort to thwart credit repair companies, more and more credit bureaus are evoking "the frivolous and irrelevancy claims" to consumers and credit repair company requests for reverification of items on a credit report.

Although every consumer has a right to request a credit bureau to reinvestigate negative information on their credit reports as outlined in the Fair Credit Reporting Act, a credit bureau may arbitrarily deny the request on the grounds that it is "frivolous and irrelevant."

At least one credit bureau has been sued by credit repair companies for misusing the frivolous and irrelevancy claim.

Credit counselors and credit repair companies also contend that credit bureaus have been digging up more and more negative information on consumers' credit reports in recent years.

"In 1967, 10 percent of the population had at least one negative item on their credit report. Today that figure is probably around 70 percent," said Ken

Yarbrough, a former internal security executive with TRW credit bureau in Orange, Calif. "It is nothing more than a marketing tool by the credit bureaus to gain an advantage over their competitors."

Yarbrough also claims that more and more companies are falling victim to their own systems.

"The identification process is the weak link on the chain and promotes the developing of duplicate files on consumers. This has the effect of keeping inaccurate information in the files longer," said Yarbrough.

"TRW has more than 300 million credit files on people in the United States. But with the population of only 250 million, how can all those files be accurate?" said Yarbrough, who also acted as a business consultant for all types of credit related firms.

Consumers are caught in the middle. While the problems with credit bureaus are numerous, the problems with credit repair agencies may be worse.

In Harrisburg, Pa., three men who ran a credit repair clinic were recently indicted for mail fraud and criminal conspiracy. The clinic promised it could repair any bad credit record. An estimated 9,000 people paid more than $2 million for help the agency did not provide.

Legitimate credit repair clinics say they are being lumped together with the bad guys, who are indeed out there.

California, New York and several other states have enacted legislation governing the advertising practices of credit repair companies.

Sweet Adelines spend days in intense rehearsal

Chain O'Lakes Chorus of Sweet Adelines, Inc., an international women's organization for the promotions of barbershop singing, met in Wauconda Saturday, Feb. 27, for their annual one-day retreat.

Members spent the day in intense rehearsal with Director Jim Arns and Jarmela Speta, renowned musical coach and director of the Racine, Wis. Region Two Chorus.

Speta has a long, honored history with Sweet Adelines. She has directed choruses in Region 3, as well as Region 2, has served on the international board of directors, been a judge at regional competitions, and sung with two quartets that have won first place in international competitions, making them Queens of Harmony.

Chain O'Lakes Chorus was thrilled to have Speta's expertise in helping them prepare for the upcoming spring regional competition taking place at the Amway Grand Plaza Hotel in Grand Rapids, Mich., on May 7.

Chain O'Lakes members range from all ages, 20 to 70. Many are working women with careers in accounting, education, secretarial or other fields; some are mothers or grandmothers, some are not.

The chorus is well-known in Lake and McHenry Counties, and has appeared at community festivals, shopping centers, nursing homes and restaurants.

Membership is open to all women with the desire to sing. No formal music education or experience is required. The chorus invites mothers, daughters, aunts, cousins or any lady who would like to hear or sing good old-fashioned four-part harmony to join them for an evening or more at the Federated Church of Wauconda, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday evenings. For more information, call (312)526-2902 after 6:30 p.m.; or (815)385-4877.

ROCK TRACKS

By Rob Ferrus

The Tunnel Of Love album has achieved double-platinum status in the U.S. with five million sales worldwide. The number one L.P. makes Bruce Springsteen the only artist in the past ten years to have four Number One pop albums.

And his current Tunnel Of Love tour promises to be musically bold, featuring more band material, less solo songs, some new material and some tunes Bruce hasn't performed in a long time. Hopefully you've got tickets.

Heart and soul of Starship vocalist Grace Slick has announced that she will no longer be touring with the band. She wants to pursue other interests, and she's entitled. "I'll be out of the band and shifting in other directions," she said. "I'm 48. How long can I jump around on stage?"

("A few more years," I say.)

"It's my own decision," she told The San Francisco Chronicle of her move to leave the band. "What other people think about what I do is sort of irrelevant."

She didn't have to give a reason. Grace was a member of Starship and before that, the Jefferson Airplane, for 22 years. Count 'em.

Dublin hospitality

Lively conversation is a mainstay of Doheny & Nesbitt Pub in Dublin. Numerous pubs throughout the city, each with its own distinct charm, provide a hub for socializing.

Dublin pubs are home to real spirit of Ireland

by MARY O'BRIEN

In the darkish warmth of a real, honest-to-God Dublin pub, a simple question can lead to pints and philosophy with an ever-expanding circle of participants. The Irish are friendly people and conversation is easy, entertaining and non-stop in the city of Swift and Wilde, Yeats and Joyce, George Bernard Shaw and Brendan Behan.

So explore Dublin on foot—the best way to grasp its soul—and stop now and then for “a few cool ones” or “a bite of tea.” (The “pub grub” available in many establishments is reasonably priced and quite good). And sample an Irish whiskey. Contrary to American misapprehensions, the taste is smooth and gentle.

Tips on cruise packing

Every “tips on packing” book ever published urges the traveler to travel light.

That's usually good advice. But not necessarily on a cruise, because you only have to unpack once, and you can leave most of what you bring locked in your stateroom when you debark for shopping, sunning or sightseeing.

Don't bring all the cruisewear you own. You will probably be unable to resist buying a few Mexican bargains in embroidered skirts and blouses or beach cover-ups.

But be advised to nurse your drink for as long as possible, for the supply of pubs is endless. Each of them has its own distinctiveness and charm. Combined, they are the center of a highly civilized society—the Dubliners.

Amsterdam, a city claimed from the sea

by JIM WARNKEN

President, North Star Travel, Inc.

As my plane taxied to the terminal at Schiphol Airport in Amsterdam, it was hard to believe that a sea battle was once fought on this very spot.

Yes, I said a sea battle. The land on which Schiphol Airport is located was once the bottom of the sea.

In fact over seven million of Holland's inhabitants now live on land wrested from the sea. And those hardy Dutch haven't stopped taming the mighty oceans. A new project of land reclamation will add over 5 percent to the nation's land area. Makes one wonder why Chicago can't keep Lake Michigan off of Lake Shore Drive!

OK, so what's there to see in this city of canals and wooden shoes?

Hop aboard one of the canal touring boats for a tour of the city. I would not suggest driving the very narrow roads that border the canals. Many a tourist has been rescued from the unguarded waterways.

You'll see the home of Rembrandt. Payments on this house put the great artist into bankruptcy.

I found a visit to the Anne Frank house a moving experience. This was where Anne Frank wrote in her diary the day-to-day ordeal of hiding from the Nazi's. For more than two years, eight people lived hidden in an attic, forced to maintain nearly total silence. Nothing has changed since the Nazi's found Ann and her family. Only Anne's father survived.

For excursions outside of Amsterdam, most travel guides are going to direct you to the windmills. Frankly I found most to be a little too touristy. I did find one working windmill still lived in on a small farm just outside a town called Weesp.

Much more impressive than the Dutch windmills are the castles not far outside of Amsterdam. Castle de Haar, near the city of Utrecht, is right out of a fairytale. It is open to the public when the Duke is not in residence.

One last word about Amsterdam. Those ladies in the windows with the red lights are not selling lingerie!

Ford's performance sustains 'Frantic'

YES

Bill Dotson

Who would believe the old, worn out movie gimmick of "picking up the wrong suitcase at the airport" could inspire the plot of what turned out to be a tense, suspenseful and very gripping adventure?

Well, not many people besides me, apparently, because it seems that other reviewers (including what's-his-name over there on the right) have been saying very negative things about "Frantic"—i.e., too slow-paced, boring, plot holes big enough to drive a semi through, etc.

To all that I must say "Au contraire, m'sieur!" because I found it to be an engrossing story that did not drag but rather, was evenly paced. The tension mounts very effectively in this gripping story of a doctor on a business trip to Paris who discovers that his wife has been kidnapped because she—all together now—"picked up the wrong suitcase at the airport."

This movie contains one of my favorite themes for a suspense thriller, one often used because it is so effective—an ordinary man caught in an extraordinary situation. The film depends largely on the screen presence of star Harrison Ford, who appears in nearly every frame. He is outstanding as a man whose desperation and bewilderment gives way to grim determination to find his wife himself.

A refreshing change here is that Dr. Walker (Ford) is clearly in love with his wife, played by Betty Buckley, so much that the thought of infidelity apparently never crosses his mind—not even when he forms an uneasy alliance with Michelle (Emmanuelle Seigner), the beautiful French girl who also picked up the wrong you-know-what at the you-know-where. The relationship that develops between them is nonetheless fascinating.

The film was directed by controversial director Roman Polanski. Scenes like the one in which Walker and Michelle try to retrieve a souvenir dangling from a Paris rooftop are clearly meant to pay respect to another famous director. Its a nice touch.

"Frantic" is a very entertaining film. So what if it has no climactic "big bang" action scene? Have we become so conditioned to expect non-stop action, due to films like "Raiders Of The Lost Ark", that we can't appreciate one that relies more on character and mood? Not this guy. I found "Frantic" to be worth seeing.

'Frantic' not bad- if seen for free

Dan Becker

The only feeling I was left with after seeing the new Harrison Ford movie was "frantic". Actually, I was frantic to get out of the theater.

"Frantic", the new "thriller" which stars Ford and Emmanuelle Seigner, is about climactic as watching a firework being sent into the sky and it turning out to be a dud.

Ford portrays a doctor who flies off to Paris with his wife (Betty Buckley) for a little work, mixed in with some rest and relaxation. As they get settled into their "lavish" hotel suite which looks like a room at the local Motel 8, Dr. Walker realizes that his wife picked up the wrong luggage.

And, surprise, the mistakenly picked up luggage belongs to a smuggler. (Ooh, boy).

While Dr. Walker takes a shower to freshen himself, his wife receives a phone call, and walks down to the lobby. By the time Dr. Walker realizes his wife has not come back, it's (yes, you guessed it) too late.

Dr. Walker goes on a quest in unfamiliar Paris to find his wife, and meets up with beautiful smuggler Michelle (Seigner). Michelle has no idea of what she was smuggling, but she does it anyway.

Dr. Walker and Michelle go out to find Mrs. Walker, and from there on, the plot goes "a little something like this"...somebody is shot...the movie drags on...somebody else is shot...the movie drags on...and at the end...a lot of people get shot.

"Frantic", deemed as one of Roman Polanski's better films, seems a little like saying "it's a good movie...for him".

The slight, off-center, ham on "wry" bread humor fails constantly through the movie as I had to often question myself "was that a joke". Most of the other audience members seemed a little unsure if they were to be laughing or not.

Ford tries hard throughout the movie to keep a straight face, but it often seems that he is waiting, as well as I was, for it to be over. As attractive as Michelle is, it is a pity she can't act. That little French accent she has sounded like a fourth grade student with a speech impediment. I was just waiting for her to say "Le boo hoo".

Buckley was the only smart actress in the movie as she left the movie 10 minutes after it started.

Theatre festival to put area in international light

The second International Theatre Festival of Chicago will present 13 world-renowned theatre companies in 20 productions—ranging from classics of western literature to festive street theatre and contemporary multimedia masterpieces between April 25 and May 29, at sites across Chicagoland.

Although international arts festivals are common in Europe, there are only a handful in America. Centrally located in the heart of the nation's midwest, the inaugural 1986 Festival in Chicago drew audiences from Alaska to Australia and "set a high standard" for other festivals, according to Time Magazine.

The 1988 Festival will present six United States premieres, including the English Shakespeare Co. and its glorious "Wars of the Roses" cycle, co-produced by the Auditorium Theatre

Council and sponsored by American Express Company.

Also making their U.S. debuts are Spain's Comedians; Ireland's Gate Theatre Dublin, sponsored by Centel Corp.; France's Compagnie Patrice Bigel; South Africa's Junction Avenue Theatre Company, in association with the Market Theatre Company; and Belgium's Pat Van Hemelrijck. Making their Chicago debuts are Canada's Carbone 14; and the State Theatre of Lithuania, which will perform at the festival in one of its two United States appearances.

The United States is represented in the Festival by four local theatre companies—Goodman Theatre, Body Politic Theatre, the Chicago Theatre Company, and Court Theatre—and a special presentation of Robert Wilson and David Byrne's "The Knee Plays".

Single ticket prices range from $10 to $33, with discounts for groups, students, and senior citizens. Interested parties should call (312)644-FEST for tickets and information.

Sara Lee Corp. is founding sponsor of the 1988 International Theatre Festival of Chicago.

The 1988 International Theatre Festival of Chicago production schedule is: April 25 to May 21, "A Flea in Her Ear" Goodman Theatre; April 26 to May 8, "Ale" (Comedians), Park West; April 27 to May 29, "Have You Seen Zandile?", Chicago Theatre Company; April 28 to May 29, "A Whistle in the Dark", Body Politic Theatre; April 30 to May 7, "I'll Go On", (Gate Theatre Dublin), Royal George Theatre.

April 30 to May 22, "Playboy of the West Indies", Court Theatre; May 2 to 8, "Le Rail", (Carbone 14), UIC Theatre; May 2 to 28, "The Wars of the Roses", (English Shakespeare Co.), Auditorium Theatre; May 10 to 15, "Touit Suit", (Pat van Hemelrijck), Victory Gardens Theatre; May 10 to 22, "Sophiatown", (Junction Avenue/Market Theatres), Royal George Theatre; May 16 to 22, "Circuits Clandestins", (Compagnie Patrice Bigel), UIC Theatre; May 17 to 29, "The Knee Plays", (Robert Wilson and David Byrne), Civic Theatre; May 24 to 26, "Uncle Vanya", (State Theatre of Lithuania), Royal George Theatre; and May 27 to 29, "Pirosmanni, Pirosmanni", (State Theatre of Lithuania), Royal George Theatre.

ASK TONI

Wagner and Wood were wed not once, but twice

By Toni Reinhold

How many daughters does Robert Wagner have? I say two, my husband says three. - F.E., Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

Robert Wagner

Wagner, who recently starred in the CBS miniseries "Windmills of the Gods," has two natural daughters. He and actress Natalie Wood were married from 1956 to 1962, but had no children. Wood married Richard Gregson in 1969, and they had a daughter, Natasha, in 1970. Wagner was married to Marion Marshall from 1963 to 1971, and they had a daughter, Katherine, in 1964. Then, in 1972, Wagner and Wood remarried. Their daughter, Courtney, was born in 1974.

Who starred in the Disney movie "The Love Bug"? What was the name of the movie's theme song? Was the song ever released on a record? - A.B.J., Sanford, N.C.
This 1969 film, which featured a white Volkswagen nicknamed Herbie, starred Dean Jones, Michele Lee and Buddy Hackett. A spokesperson for Walt Disney Productions says that there was no "Love Bug" theme song, and that the musical score was never made available to the public. And even diehard Herbie fans have never heard the song "Herbie," which was written for the film but not used. It was never recorded or published either.

I would swear that Carol Burnett's daughter, Carrie Hamilton, was in "Fame." But my sister doesn't remember seeing her. How old is Hamilton? Why is her last name different from her mother's? - E.B., Marlboro, N.J.

Actress Carrie Hamilton, the eldest daughter of actress and comedienne Carol Burnett, is 24. She was a regular for two seasons on the syndicated series "Fame." Her father is named Joe Hamilton, and she uses his last name.

What is the title of the movie that starred Betty Hutton as Annie Oakley, playing opposite Howard Keel? Is it available on videocassette? - A.L., Hastings, Neb.

You're thinking of the 1950 musical "Annie Get Your Gun," which also starred Keenan Wynn and J. Carrol Naish. It is available on video.

THIS WEEK'S

HOROSCOPE

BY SALOME

Weekly Tip: Take steps to ensure you will not be out maneuvered.

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) After a long period of doubt and uncertainty in your career, you now seem to have too many choices. Watch your movements, as others are watching too.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) You should be able to make headway now concerning some sort of travel arrangement. Use your flair, insight and ingenuity to outsmart the opposition.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) You are obviously still going through the emotional ringer; you feel angry, hurt and let down. Use this energy to concentrate on ailing finances.

Cancer (June 21-July 20) Use the influence of your planets to air your grievances. Partners must be made to realize there are situations you will no longer tolerate.

Leo (July 21-Aug. 22) There is no use bombarding colleagues with questions now. Pay more attention to health matters. Use your foresight to plan an unforgettable vacation.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You keep turning minor challenges into monumental barriers by overemphasizing these situations. Let things roll off your back more for less stress.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Your negative feelings toward others are going to get you nowhere fast; a sense of humor will enable you to turn even rejections into your advantage.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You must be prepared for relatives and companions to rely on you heavily. Your financial outlook is encouraging, so keep on top of the situation.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Business matters and financial undertakings will monopolize your time; do not let the stress cause other relationships to falter. Rely on Scorpions.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Reverse the frustrating trends of the past few weeks. Your independent nature has taken you far, but don't let it turn you into a stubborn creature.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) If you're feeling neglected by those you care about, let them know it. Whatever your situation, remember happiness comes to those who earn it.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) A business associate could prove argumentative, so safeguard your position. You are churned up emotionally, but soon you will see more clearly.

If you were born this week, you must take steps to guarantee your position in life. In spite of resentment or emotional outbursts, you can succeed if you persevere with the integrity you were born with. A new involvement in the coming year will prove entertaining and fulfilling. ©1988, McNaught Synd.

Western GOP voters like distaff look

It was ladies day in rock-ribbed Republican west Lake County as voters nominated two distaff politicians for County Board seats.

Dist. 4 Republicans in Antioch, Lake Villa, Grant and Avon Twp. thrust a newcomer, Suzi Schmidt, into the limelight as a leading vote-getter and a fresh face in county government.

Dist. 6 Republicans in Wauconda, Ela, Fremont and Cuba Twp. selected Roberta "Bobbie" O'Reilly of Long Grove for a nomination. O'Reilly, a GOP committee person, rode to victory on promises of representing voters' wishes on open space and her experience in government as an independent trustee of Buffalo Grove.

Victory in the primary is tantamount to election in the two western districts.

Schmidt, a vivacious bundle of energy from rural Lake Villa with experience as a township trustee, topped four candidates, collecting 4,378 votes. Her running mate, popular radio personality Larry Leafblad, received 4,200 votes and a "close, but no cigar."

Teaming with Schmidt in November will be veteran Antioch politician Jim Fields, currently serving as County Board chairman, who was recipient of a united front of hometown voters. Fields had 4,297 votes.

Fields' running mate, incumbent Dist. 4 Rep. Fred Popp, was the other also-ran with 3,392 votes.

Schmidt immediately declared herself an "example of new independent Republican in Lake County." Her sex in a district with a history for electing women and her No. 2 ballot position obviously didn't hurt.

Teamed with incumbent Dist. 6 Rep. C. Richard Anderson of Barrington, O'Reilly's win with 5,223 votes came as a mild upset since the Anderson-O'Reilly combo was battling two entrenched and popular leaders, Gerry Beyer, supervisor of Wauconda Twp. and a Dist. 6 incumbent, and Wayne Miller, Cuba Twp. supervisor.

Beyer and Miller ran with Republican Central Committee endorsements and this might have been their undoing, as Dist. 6 GOP voters were looking for independence.

Anderson had 5,083 votes and the unsuccessful team of Beyer and Miller had 4,094 and 3,973 votes respectively.

Supervisor Robert Grever of Ela Twp., once a candidate himself, pointed out that the failure of Beyer and Miller to get support in Ela and Lake Zurich contributed to their downfall. "There was a lot of work in Ela for Anderson and O'Reilly," Grever declared.

Beyer was gracious in defeat, remarking, "I'm going to work real hard with the people elected. I am not unhappy. It sure is not going to spoil my summer."

The open space question worked against Beyer and Miller, the Wauconda Twp. supervisor reflected. "The bad press we got indicated we were against open space, but of course we were not. Two supervisors running together didn't help," Beyer added.

Palm cries, apologizes as he gets 30-months

by GLORIA DAVIS

Tim Palm, Antioch, who pled guilty in the death of Craig Campbell, 40, also of Antioch after a boat accident on Lake Marie in August, was sentenced to 30 months of probation in Lake County Court on Wednesday.

Palm cried during the sentence and apologized to the court and Campbell's family, saying that he wished he had been killed instead of Campbell.

According to States Atty. Randy Stewart, who said he was satisfied with the sentence, Palm will spend 30 days in the county jail to be followed by a six-month home detention when he will only be allowed to be at work at his parents marina or at his parents home where he lives.

Palm's whereabouts will be monitored by an ankle bracelet.

After the first seven months of his probation during which Palm will not be allowed to drive, another year of no driving will start.

In all this time Palm will not be allowed to drive a boat except in the daytime in connection with his job at the marina, he also cannot even be a passenger in a boat at night.

Palm was ordered to pay $4,400 to the Campbell family for the cost of the victim's funeral. He was also mandated to spend 150 hours in public service and will not be allowed any connection whatsoever with alcohol or drugs.

Tax hike loses

by GLORIA DAVIS

With 624 electors turning out, the Grass Lake Grade School referendum for a 50-cent education fund tax rate hike was defeated by two votes in Tuesday's primary.

On Wednesday, Grass Lake Supt. Anthony Przeklasa said that the procedures of getting a vote recount were being looked into.

BEST FOOT FORWARD

FROM THE OFFICE OF
DR. PAUL ABLER

HALLUX RIGIDUS

Hallux rigidus is a painful condition in which the flexibility of the big toe becomes limited. Young persons with this condition tend to be female and to have long, narrow feet with a flat arch. The pressure caused by this shape of foot is transmitted through the first metatarsal bone and big toe.

The teenaged patient usually has intermittent bouts of sudden pain at the base of the big toe, which are worsened by walking, especially in high-heeled shoes. In adulthood, pain and stiffness are continual, and patients may also have a painful and tender bunion as well.

Your podiatrist may recommend a special shoe, which will allow comfort during the acute bouts of the condition. During a flare-up, injections of hydrocortisone may help. Surgery is usually reserved for cases where the pain is continuous or where it is steadily worsening.

Ben Franklin staff strives for the unusual

The Ben Franklin Store on Grand Ave. in Lindenhurst is successful because its owners depend on customer satisfaction, according to Assistant Manager Renee Twombly.

"If there are three customers in line at the checkouts, they get upset if there aren't three cashiers up there to take care of them," she said.

The owners are brothers Marvin and Burton Steinberg who have owned the Ben Franklin for 15 years. Twombly said one of them is often around to keep an eye on the business first hand.

Twombly has been at the store for three years, but has only been assistant manager for one. Store Manager Ray Aske has been there for one year, prior to which he worked for several other large chains. Twombly also credits his skill in the operation of the store.

"We're always looking for the unusual," she added. "For instance, we're expanding our craft department, where we're getting in some very unusual baskets and flowers. Our craft dept. has a very experienced staff with high quality workmanship."

"Diana Long is our design expert and Anita Osborne is our crochet 'bug'," Twombly said. "They're both very good."

Twombly stated that with the Steinbergs' philosophy of customer satisfaction and a talented staff, its no wonder the Ben Franklin is doing well.

Skyway picks best

Sophomore Joel Elfering and freshman Don Kiesgen were selected to the all-Skyway Conference as College of Lake County representatives.

Elfering, a Warren High grad, played in all 32 games for the Lancers. He finished with 115 baskets in 258 attempts, a percentage of 44.6. He made 81 of 121 free-throw tries, 66.9 percent and averaged 11.2 points per contest. The 5-11 point guard led CLC with 238 assists.

Kiesgen, who starred at Grant High in Fox Lake, was named to the honorable mention list. Kiesgen shot a team-leading 57.8 percent from the field, making 200 of 346 shots. He averaged 14.6 points per game. Kiesgen was second with 170 rebounds.

Bob Bell was named to the honorable mention team. Bell led in rebounding with 216 and led CLC with 16 points per game.

Players on the all-Skyway first team were: Kendrick Cross, 6-2 center from Waubesa; Curtis Eldridge, 6-2 guard from Morton; Aaron Hudson, a 6-3 guard from Wright; Vince Nichols, a 5-11 guard from McHenry; Mark Rau, a 6-2 forward from Elgin; Moseth Sample, a 6-5 center from Wright; Eric Schunke, a 6-6 center from McHenry; Mike Simon, a 6-9 center from Oakton and Harvey Turney, a 6-5 forward from Morton. All are sophomores with the exception of Cross. Hudson was named most valuable player.

Seeking speedskaters

Hoping to capitalize on the Olympic spirit, Ray Passarella is seeking interested speedskaters.

Passarella said that if enough interest is shown, then summer camps may be offered or ice time at Zion Ice Arena could be in the future. Passarella has had national qualifiers come out of his Lake Villa club, so perhaps the next Debbie Thomas is living in Lake County. If youth are interested in the speed skating, they should contact Passarella at (312) 356-1639.

College notes

Two products of local high schools will be playing baseball for midwest colleges this spring.

John Ofstun, a graduate of Stevenson High School, is a pitcher for the University of Kentucky. Ofstun, a 6-3, 210 pound freshman and Lincolnshire resident, transferred to Kentucky from Stetson University. At Stevenson, Ofstun had a 9-1 record and 1.25 earned run average. He batted .400 and set a school record eight home runs in his final season. He holds the career record for saves and homers at Stevenson. Ofstun was also a basketball standout for the Patriots, earning all-North Suburban Conference honors.

Ofstun played summer ball for the Lakeforest Travelers in the North Shore League. He batted .375 with nine homers while posting a 6-2 record, a 2.25 ERA and had four saves.

Good reason to smile

Long after fans had departed Waukegan East High School's gym, Warren's victorious basketball team, cheerleaders, statisticians and coaches join to celebrate sectional title win.

Warren's comeback falls short

by STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

Just after Warren's basketball team beat Waukegan East in the sectional final game, some members of the squad dubbed themselves "the Rodney Dangerfield of basketball". That is, the Blue Devils don't get any respect.

But respect was a valuable consolation prize for the Blue Devils Tuesday, whose comeback from a 13-point halftime deficit came up just short in a 66-61 loss to Evanston. Warren's season ended just a few bounces away from a major upset and a trip to Champaign.

"I'm happy with the year. The kids have not quit all year long and they did not quit tonight," Warren Coach Darrel Bader, whose team finishes at 22-6, said.

Warren trailed the quicker, taller and bulkier Wildkits 36-23 at halftime and it appeared like Evanston, based on a 17-5 run in the second quarter, was going to make a laugh out of the Elgin Supersectional battle.

"Their quickness was the difference," Bader said.

And rebounding, also helped the Wildkits. Evanston owned both ends of the boards, outrebounding Warren 31-16. Ironically, much of the tri-North Suburban Conference champion's success this year was because of superior rebounding efforts.

Warren's Dave Nolan, a senior, did as much as he possibly could in leading the Blue Devils to the comeback. Nolan finished with a career-high 27 points. Senior Matt Lingenfelter, who left the game to a standing ovation from the Warren fans, had 16.

"We had three different guys on Nolan," Evanston Coach Mike Hart said.

Nolan started the Warren comeback with the first basket of the second half. When Derek Shelton cut through the Evanston defense for a layup that trimmed the margin to 38-31, the Blue Devils were back in the game and Hart had to call timeout with 5:09 left in the third quarter.

Evanston used a full-court press and tried to pull away. A basket by Juvon McGarry, who led Evanston with 32 points and 15 rebounds, gave the Wildkits a 46-36 lead with just over two minutes left.

A field goal and free throw by Nolan and a Lingenfelter layup brought Warren back to seven points. Evanston tried to use a delay offense in the final minutes but McGarry was slapped with a technical foul for hanging on the rim. Lingenfelter made both free throws Mark Eifert connected on a three-footer, bringing Warren to within shooting distance at 48-45.

Evanston opened up a five-point lead at the outset of the final quarter.

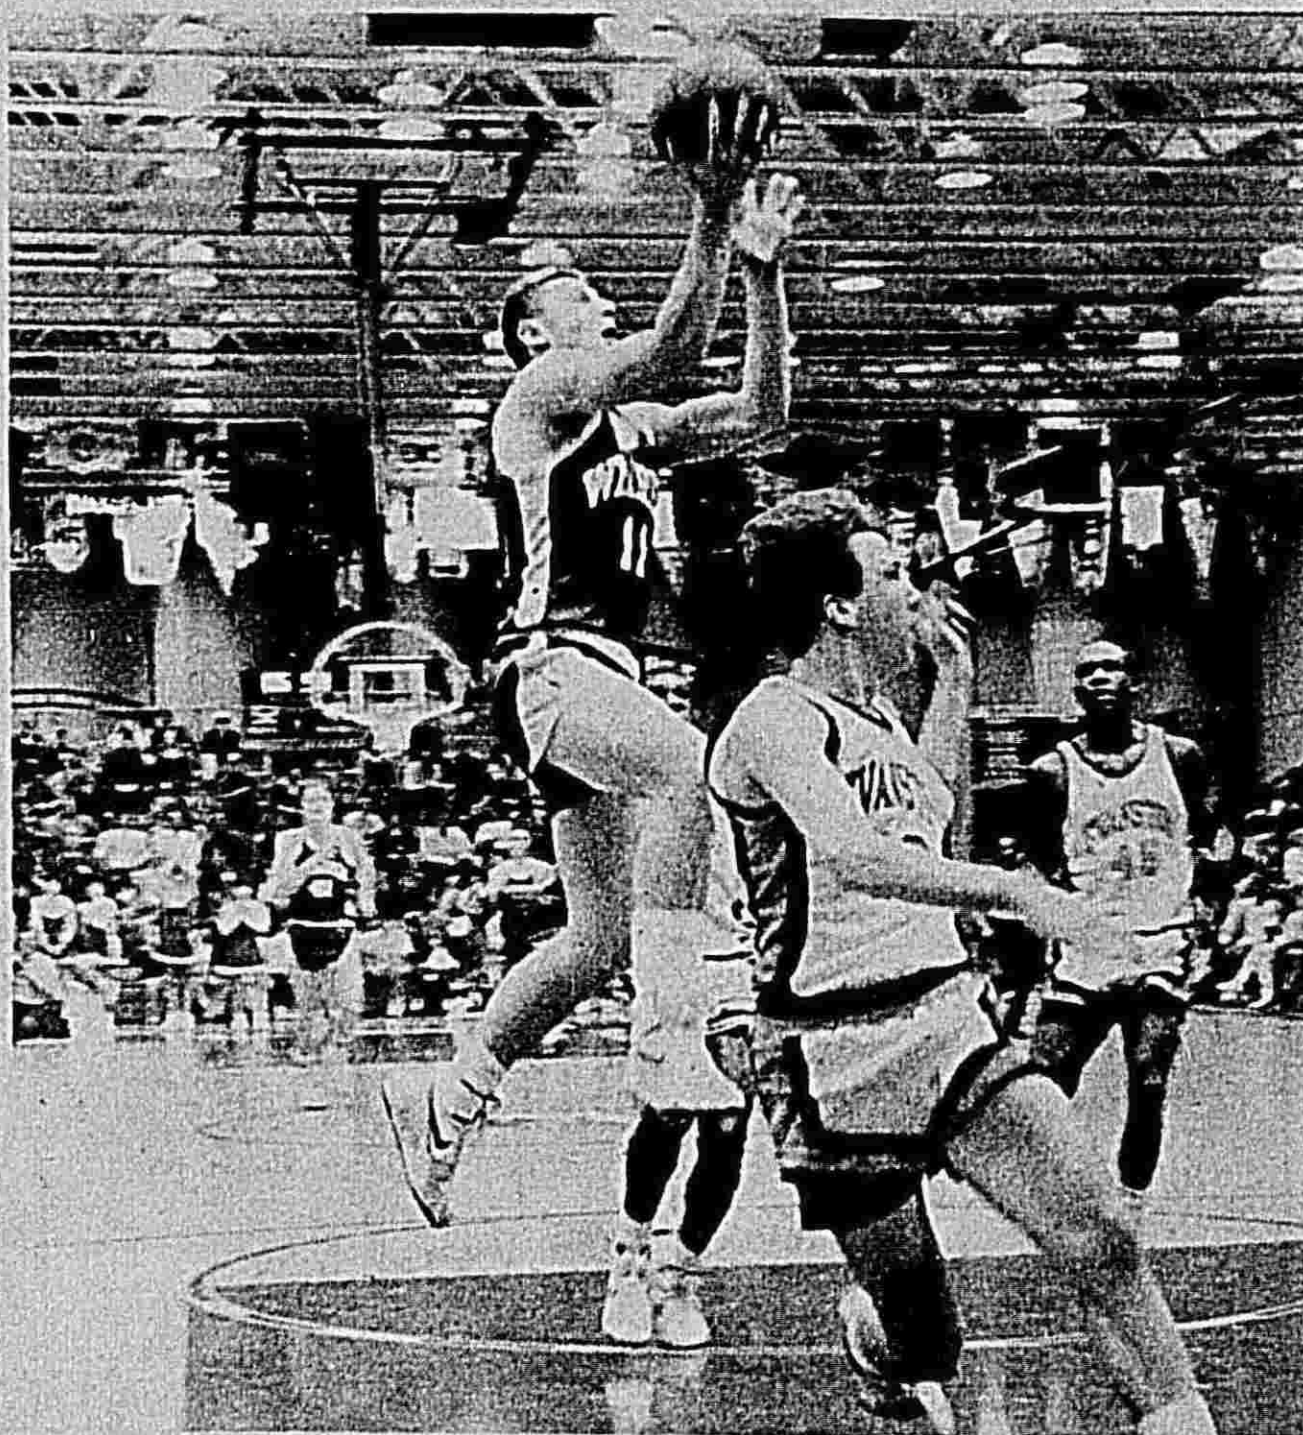

Eifert scored and Shelton stole the ball and scored on a layup, bringing Warren to within one - the first of two times Warren would get as close.

Evanston's Tyrone Bell, who finished with 15 points, then took the leadership role for Evanston. Bell scored on a tip-in to maintain the lead. After Nolan scored to make it 54-53, Bell scored again on a baseline jumper. Bell then came up with a steal, which led to a McGarry basket. A Warren turnover proved critical, leading to a Bell hoop for a seven-point lead with 3:50 left.

The closest Warren could come after that was three points twice. Warren had its chances to tie the game in the final seconds, but Nolan's three-pointer hit off the rim and Shelton's shot banked off the backboard.

"We played tentatively in the first half. We didn't say get the ball to Nolan in the third quarter, he just did it," Bader said.

Hart joins 1,000 Point Club at Lakeland College

Hart, burly six five-inch junior from Antioch, is the 27th member of Lakeland College's point club for ball scorers. He was pumped in 21 earlier this week in a Lake Michigan conference game against Western to increase his three-year total to 1,012 points, 26th best on Lakeland's all-time scoring list. The southpaw shooter—only the third lefthander among the 27 sharpshooters—has one game this year and all of next season to add to his total. (The other top scorers who shot primarily with their left hand were Dick Imme, 1,236 points, and Dale Wodsdalek, 1,005.) Hart scored 85 points as a freshman, 409 as a sophomore, and has 518 going into the Muskies' season finale this Saturday, a conference game at Concordia College in Mequon. He is averaging almost 18 points per game this season. Earlier this year, Stacy Urbas, a junior from Sheboygan, went over the 1,000 mark for Lakeland's women's team. With the regular season completed, Urbas has increased her career total to 1,383 points and has the possibility of playing in at least three more games because the Muskies are involved in the post-season playoffs. The male Muskies who have lost their last three games—two of them against Lake Michigan foes—will be trying to improve their 4-9 conference and 6-23 overall records against Concordia. Interim Coach John Bryda's team lost to the Falcons 73-67, back in January. Concordia is in second place in the conference standings (10)3, behind unbeaten Marian College of Fond du Lac which has already wrapped up the 1987-88 title.

Gentless Moskal anticipates successful career in CFL

If there were more all players like Tom Moskal, perhaps the business would be a lot easier. Being cut on the roster by the St. Louis Cardinals last year, he did not hire an agent, preferring to go it alone. He sent letters to all the teams, telling about himself," Moskal said. "Because of that, I had a chance meeting with an Edmonton offensive lineman, Moskal is now preparing to head north to play for the Canadian Football League team. "I'm excited about it," Moskal said. Moskal will give to get used to playing a different brand of football when he was used to at Zurich High School and Eastern Illinois University. For one thing, there are only three downs, not four, in CFL football and the field is smaller. Also, 12 men are allowed per team. Moskal will bring with him a myriad of positions that he can put on his football resume. The latest will be outside linebacker, a la Lawrence Taylor of the New York Giants. "It's just like a defensive end. I'll be rushing the quarterback," he said. Moskal had some surprises in store for himself when he reported to the St. Louis camp last summer. Originally told he would be a tackle, the Cardinals (who are moving to Phoenix next year), later switched him to linebacker, a position he never played much before.

The 1982 LZHS graduate has played both sides of the line of scrimmage. "It made me a more balanced player," he said. Moskal reported to Charleston expecting to play offensive line but the Panthers had plenty of linemen on that side of the ball when he came to EIU. "One of the coaches said that I would not make the traveling squad on the offensive line but asked if I wanted to play the defensive line," he said. Season opener Carmel for Girls softball team is preparing for its season opener next week. The Corsairs, weather permitting, will battle Barrington in non-conference game March 23.

NFL hoopsters

Chicago Bear and National Football League players pose before playing College of Lake County team in fund-raiser. NFL stars included: Marty Amsler, Charlie Brown, Ronnie Bull, Bobby Douglas, Allan Ellis, Leslie Frazier, Major Hazelton, Ike Hill, Gale Sayers, Tyrone Walls, Joe Washington and Mike Wynn. Local players on team included Tom Wittum, Grayslake Community High School coach and Curtis Gentry, former Bears player and now athletic director at CLC. Funds will be used to offset costs for the school's softball program.

Sjong's shot saves Devils

by STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

From now on in Warren Twp. High School sports history, the plays will be known simply as The Steal and The Shot.

When Derek Shelton and Dave Sjong and the rest of the Blue Devils gather for the WTHS's Class of 1988's 25-year reunion, those two plays in the sectional final game against Waukegan East will undoubtedly be discussed. That is how important those two plays in the overtime session were to Warren's 44-41 win and a berth in the Class AA Sweet Sixteen.

Warren, playing before a packed gym at unfriendly Waukegan East, was tied with the host Bulldogs 39-39. East was setting up for a last-second shot by using a delay offense. With 23 seconds left, Shelton noticed something about guard-forward Victor Orange's dribbling.

"He had been dribbling the ball to his right all the time and I got lucky and tapped it away," Shelton, a senior, said.

One might expect Warren Coach Darrel Bader to call timeout to set up the shot, but he did not. "We coach the kids not to call timeout. It's too difficult to get the ball inbounds sometimes," Bader said.

So Shelton, after several passes, flung the ball over to fellow senior Sjong on the right baseline.

"They thought Derek was going to go all the way. My man (defender) went over to help on Derek," Sjong recalled.

Sjong had had difficulty shooting the three-points shot in the first 34 minutes of play, making only one and at one point Bader had to put him on the bench.

"I was really pumped up. Coach Bader told me to relax," Sjong said.

A three-point special from that spot since the second half of the season confidently released a jump shot. It hit nothing but net, and Waukegan East could not get a timeout called as the final seconds clicked off.

"I had a dream that would come in here and hit a three-point shot and be able to carry off the sectional trophy," Sjong said.

Although The Steal and The Play decided the game, Bader knows his team headed for Elgin for a super sectional game while East's Cinderella postseason hopes ended.

"We play together real well. We have a very good team. I have a lot of confidence in them," Bader said.

Warren improved its record to 25-5 on the year.
